July 16, 2009

Dear Mr. Reginald Chua

Editor-in-chief, South China Morning Post

Dear Sir,

It has been for Nineteen days since we sent our response letter to a myriad of articles and news stories on Iran on the heels of the Presidential election there on June 29, 2009.

It was expected that respected newspaper to provide an equal opportunity for the views of the Consulate General of the Islamic Republic of Iran to be voiced in your previous immediate issues in response to the totally negative coverage of the recent developments in Iran by SCMP.

The unilateral approach taken by your newspaper in covering the news and developments in Iran and your refusal to publish our response letter all attest to the extent SCMP is influenced by foreign media and also to its unprofessionalism.

This Consulate General reserves itself the right to make the clarifications for the public and to respond to such unprofessional an act through any available means at its disposal.

With Regards

Press Section
